Six of Colonel Caamaño's followers have departed but the colonel is holding out, seeking full protection for the 200 to 300 armed supporters still left here.

The armed forces leaders are expected to relax their insubordination after Colonel Caamaño's departure. But they resent the high price asked of them.

Each day, despite their mutiny, they talk and argue with the President.

How can the President keep talking to people who flout his orders?

"That's easy," says a veteran diplomat. "This is cuckoo land."

MRS. MOSSLER GETS THREATENING MAIL

MIAMI, Jan. 20 (AP)—Mrs. Caspere Mossler said today that one man had threatened to do her to the electric chair and another had promised to clear her if she was convicted of having murdered her wealthy husband.

Mrs. Mossler, 39 years old, spoke in the presence of her chief attorney, Clyde Woody, during a recess in the fourth day of her trial.

She has been deluged with crank letters, Mrs. Mossler said, since she and her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, 29, were charged with the murder of Jacques Mossler, 64, owner of a $28-million banking chain.

In a letter postmarked at Houston, she said, a man demanded that she deliver $120,000 in cash to him and that he would give testimony that would put her in the chair if she did not comply. Mr. Woody said he had turned the letter over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Another man wrote four letters in which he said he knew the killer and would produce him, if either Mrs. Mossler or Mr. Powers was convicted. The letters, postmarked at Miami and Hollywood, Fla., were signed "Ted."

Many of the letters were threatening, the defendant said, while others offered prayers in her behalf.

SENATOR MCCARTHY ASKS C.I.A. INQUIRY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—Senator Eugene J. McCarthy called today for an investigation of the activities of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The Minnesota Democrat said in an interview that unless the Senate Foreign Relations Committee undertook such a study on its own he would seek a showdown vote in the committee on a formal resolution proposing such an inquiry.

Senator McCarthy said he would introduce a Senate resolution next week proposing "a full and complete inquiry" by the committee with respect to the effects of operations of the C.I.A. "on the foreign policy of the United States."

He added that to give the Senate a choice this resolution would be followed by another calling for an inquiry by a blue-ribbon committee made up of senators from Foreign Relations and other standing committees.

The Foreign Relations Committee, as well as the Senate, is divided over the advisability of investigating the activities of the ultra-secret agency. The committee, Senator McCarthy said, has discussed a study, but had made no decision.

There are already about 60 such stations throughout the world, said Abraham Schnapf, R. C. A.'s project manager for the weather satellite systems. One of these stations is believed to be on an aircraft carrier, another in the Antarctic and others at weather stations at widely scattered points.

The second satellite, following a near polar orbit, will be taking pictures and broadcasting them continuously. During the maximum of roughly 15 minutes during which the satellite will be over the horizon for any given station it may give the station as many as three pictures each covering a ground area 1,750 by 1,750 miles.

This will give the station a complete and current picture of the weather over a large region around it. Such coverage, available in any place on earth that has a receiving station, has never been even approached through any weather system.

The first of the two satellites will only transmit pictures while in range of either of two United States stations, one near Fairbanks, Alaska, the other on Wallops Island, Va. This satellite will store the pictures it takes throughout each orbit for transmission to these stations. Each day the transmissions will give a total picture of the world's weather.

From the two receiving stations, the pictures will be sent directly by wire to the United States Weather Bureau's National Weather Satellite Center, Suitland, Md. Specialists there will make a global weather analysis from the pictures. This analysis is to be distributed through normal Weather Bureau channels.

Although four Tiro weather satellites are at present in orbit and transmitting some pictures, they do not, together, provide the total global coverage to be expected from the first of the operational satellites.

PARIS SAYS GERMANS BLOCK MARKET PACT

Special to The New York Times
PARIS, Jan. 20—French officials accused West Germany today of obstructing a settlement of the European Common Market crisis. "The Germans are the problem," an official said.

The French position was that a brief meeting of Common Market foreign ministers could come to agreement on France's proposals for curbing the bloc's Executive Commission, and a little human ingenuity would turn up a formula to set aside majority rule and preserve the veto power on important matters.

In the French view, West Germany has taken a surprising and stubborn stand against France's suggestion that the commission be reconstructed by April—merged, as planned, with the commissions of the European Coal and Steel Community and Euratom. The implication was that West Germany was seeking to protect Prof. Walter Hallstein, the German who is president of the Common Market Commission.

Special to The New York Times
STRASBOURG, France, Jan. 20—In friendly tones, France and her five European Common Market partners debated the crucial voting issue today. Deputies and ministers who took part in the all-day debate in the European Parliament made no progress on the matter.

down at the height of his popularity, after a record term: 16 years—as Prime Minister.

He said that he wanted "a real holiday" and that there been no suggestion of any political pressure on him to retire. He has been in Parliament since 1935 and was also Prime Minister from 1939 to 1941.

The Liberals elected William McMahon, Minister for Labor and National Service, as deputy leader in Mr. Holt's place.

Tonight Sir Robert went before a nationwide radio and television audience and assessed his career.

"Our relations with the United States have improved enormously," he said. "The best single step that has been taken in the time of my Government was, I think, the ANZUS treaty."

The treaty links Australia, New Zealand and the United States in a mutual-defense pact.

Senator Paltridge Dies

CANBERRA, Australia, Friday, Jan. 21 (UPI)—Sir Shane Paltridge, the Senate leader, who resigned Wednesday as Defense Minister, died today of cancer in Perth Hospital.

The death eliminated the slim one-vote majority in Parliament of the Prime Minister-designate, Harold Holt. Mr. Holt may now be forced to call a special election.

Sir Shane, 56 years old, had been senator for Western Australia since 1951. He had been ill for several weeks and entered the hospital Monday.

Senator Paltridge, who had served previously as Minister for Civil Aviation, was named Defense Minister on April 24, 1964, by Prime Minister Menzies. In response to United States requests, he announced in a few weeks that Australia was increasing her military aid to South Vietnam.

In 1935 Mr. Holt followed Mr. Menzies to the Federal Parliament and became, at the age of 32, the baby of the first Menzies Cabinet, which took office in 1939.

But a place had to be found for a minister from the Country party, and Mr. Holt was dropped. Soon afterward, he joined the Australian Army as a private and asked for overseas service.

Mrs. Alice Harrington Schmid, Friends of Animals, Inc. 17 West 60th Street New York, New York

Dear Mrs. Schmid:

I was shocked to read your a York Times of December 27, 1965 attack on kosher slaughter, base and misleading statements bordering some of the most obvious in

1. It is absolutely false that it is non-kosher to hoist animals. In thirty years as a slaughterhouse owner I have never heard of a single instance of an animal being hoisted as a result of injuries sustained.

2. The claim that animals are hoisted is a gross distortion of the truth. In thirty years as a slaughterhouse owner I have never heard of a single instance of an animal being hoisted as a result of injuries sustained.

3. Similarly, the claim that a death is a gross distortion of the truth. In thirty years as a slaughterhouse owner I have never heard of a single instance of an animal being hoisted as a result of injuries sustained.

4. The reference to the "bar" of hoisted meat is distorted and false. The permit for hoisting preparation is that the animal is hoisted and lowered. The animal is shackled and hoisted. This can in no way be construed as a violation of Jewish law. Indeed, one day's hunting in the forest and the animal is hoisted and lowered. This can in no way be construed as a violation of Jewish law.

5. There can be little doubt that the proposed legislation is kosher slaughter. Non-kosher slaughter of cattle "Four" — Armour, Cudahy, Swift closed their plants in New York, as unacceptably. It is only the ers supplying kosher meat who
